Conference: DNI Open Source Conference 2008

Date: 11-12 September 2008

Location: Ronald Reagan Building and International Trade Center
1300 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20004

Web Site: <http://www.dniopensource.org>

The Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) is pleased to announce that the “DNI Open Source Conference 2008” will be held on Thursday, 11 September and Friday, 12 September 2008 at the Ronald Reagan Building and International Trade Center in Washington DC.

The conference will explore a wide range of open source issues, encourage information sharing, and discuss open source best practices among the Intelligence Community and its partners. The two-day conference will host participants from the broader open source community of interest including partners in academia, think tanks, private industry, and federal, state, local and tribal entities, and international partners. Training sessions on open source intelligence tradecraft will also be offered.

Detailed information about the content and agenda will be available in May 2008. Participants may register online at www.dniopensource.org. Conference registration can only be completed via the Web site starting on 29 April. All registration applications must be received no later than Thursday, 31 July 2008; early registration is encouraged due to space limitations and demand.

In conjunction with the conference, a commercial exposition will showcase open source information and technology vendors and will feature specialized open source demonstrations. Contact Nicole McCracken at the Federal Business Council on 800-878-2940 ext. 202, Nicole@fbcinc.com, or visit www.fbcinc.com for more information about how your organization may participate.
